WHAT HAPPENED HERE?

Susana Echavarría Medina - Sussi (5° A)

Yesterday I went to sleep, and I knew that something was going to be wrong and imagine... something happened.

When I entered to my classroom all the girls were really strange, they DIDN'T TALK., that was weird. I asked what is happening here? And the worst thing was that I didn't know the answer! When break started the silence continued. The only thing was that now it wasn't just my classmates, it was all the school. I panicked. I didn't know what to do! I went to the bathroom, and when I came back all there (including teachers) was crazy, really crazy. They were screaming, dancing, and singing. It looked like a carnival. I thought "something is happening here and I need to know what it is" So I picked my lunch box, and I ran to the classroom to start my plan.

Obviously I was not going to "stay waiting for the answer" I needed to know what was wrong with my friends, with my teachers, and with all the school. I took my block and I started to write all the things that were wrong at school

I wrote:

1. When I arrived to school all my classmates were in silence.

2. When I went to break all the school was in silence.

3. After that...

I heard a voice, sincerely a really mad voice. I turned back and I saw the director, she was furious. She told me that I needed to go with her. I was really scared, I thought: what did I do? When I entered to her office she told me to sit, I sat, my knees were shaking and she told me that I needed a really big punishment. I was surprised, I didn't know why she said that, and I started thinking that the weird situation continued, but this wasn't that this was serious. She told me that I didn't celebrate the most important celebration of the school, she was furious, probably the most furious person I had seen in my life. I was paralyzed literally paralyzed, she saw that I was scared, and she calmed down and told me that I needed to go to the party of the silence I looked like what? She told me that today was the silence day for the pollution of the world, I asked why after all the people were screaming.

She told me that they were screaming because the radio said that the pollution was going down. I thought that was weird, but I was happy because now I knew what was wrong!
