THE MISSING ONE

Maria Antonia Parra Villegas (9°A)

Did you know that you could miss someone even if you see them every day? Maybe you don't miss their presence, you miss their soul, their spirit. They say the hardest battles are given to the strongest soldiers, but how strong are you? Is that smile you wear everyday really happiness or is it just a mask?

You think you are strong, you think you can handle every situation, you think you can spread positive vibes everywhere you go and you act in such a way you actually believe it. But late at night when you cry alone, when no one can hear you, when no one can see the reality of feelings, that's the time you realize what you are really hiding from others and what you are so scared to show.

When you miss someone, days seem like years and hours seem like days even if these people aren't far from you. Maybe you just miss the way they act and their indifference is killing you inside, but we all have to understand that people change for a reason and you just have to convince yourself of the idea that you have to keep going, that nothing lasts forever and most importantly that life goes on with or without anybody.
