A Different world

Can you imagine a world where unicorns, sirens and fairies existed? Well that is how Norland was; it was a world where only supernatural beings lived. Unicorns could fly as high as clouds, sirens were friendly and nice but if you did something they didn't like, you could end up being their biscuit. Fairies were hard workers and they planned what they were going to do each day. But as in our world there are criminals, bandits and robbers, in this one there were vampires, elves and zombies. Norland was losing all its unicorns and it ended up with only one. This unicorn was very old, but there was a medicine for being young again and creating another 50 creatures of the same species. This was the perfect medicine for him. Unfortunately, you couldn't find this medicine in Norland, only... on planet Earth. The fairies and sirens decided to start their trip to Earth, but there was a problem, fairies could fly, but sirens couldn't go anywhere. So they remembered a flying machine that was created and abandoned before the supernatural beings inhabited this land, it could take you to any place, it was located in a big castle that was locked away with a key. This key was hidden somewhere. No one knew where, so they had to solve that mystery.

After days of searching, the vampires revealed their secret: they had the key, but they wouldn't give it back because as we know they are bad creatures. So they declared a war, which in that world would be the winner of a game, in this case: a game of chess. Fairies and sirens vs. zombies and elves played a one-hour chess game. Zombies and elves felt that they would win the game easily but the smart old unicorn, which wasn't playing intervened in the game and played a trick that someone taught him years ago and the good creatures won! They won the game, everybody was celebrating and vampires had to give them the key. The good creatures started their trip to the castle walking for about 10 minutes, and when they got there, they opened the castle, entered and saw the glorious flying machine, and took it to another place to keep it. The next day in the morning, the queen fairy and the queen siren got into the machine. Their flight was supposed to be a long trip but it didn't feel so long because the time went faster on planet Earth. They flew to the planet and came back in just 45 minutes, it was amazing. The medicine came from as beautiful plant called Eucalyptus, it smelled so good.

When they came back and applied it to the unicorn, another 50 unicorns immediately appeared and the old one became a baby. Everybody lived happily ever after and continued going to planet Earth for more medicine. "As creatures went and came back from earth, they finally decided to stay there on that beautiful blue and green planet. They evolved and now this is the magic and amazing story of how humans got to Earth.
